

GOAL PLANNER

- If you're unsure of your true priorities, it will be difficult to determine what to request, what to advocate for, and what you can compromise on. Simply saying, "I want everything!" isn't helpful for you or for the mediation process.
- This worksheet is designed to help you clarify your priorities before entering your joint mediation sessions.
- Complete this in preparation for your Preliminary Planning Session, and share it with your mediator during that session.
- If you need more space, transfer the worksheet to additional pages of a legal or letter-sized notepad. Use the top half of each page to outline your priorities and the bottom half for your spouse's. Feel free to add or remove items to customize it to your specific situation.
- We have added some of the main areas to help get you started. Under each subject, number your goals in order of priority to you. And that which you believe is your spouses priority.
